

DR SHOIB MYINT

Leading the Present and Future of Oculofacial Plastic Surgery and Regenerative Medicine

When patients begin the search for the very best in Oculofacial Plastic Surgery, Dr. Myint's name consistently rises to the top. Spoken with admiration throughout Las Vegas and Beverly Hills, Dr. Myint's prestige draws patients from across the country and beyond to visit his beautifully curated office in Las Vegas and Beverly Hills. Widely regarded as an innovator in Oculofacial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery, Dr. Myint has earned a reputation as the "wizard" of facial balance. One of only a small number of fellowship-trained Oculofacial Plastic Surgeons worldwide, he represents the gold standard of leadership, artistry, and forward-thinking medicine.

Board-certified and fellowship trained Dr. Myint specializes in restoring beauty, balance and function to the eyes and face, working with remarkable precision in an area where millimeters matter. Patients fly to see Dr Myint for revisions from other surgeons, deep plane face and neck lifts, deep plane eyelid lifts, brow balancing, microfat and nanofat transfers, and his regenerative therapies for optimizing healing. At the heart of every procedure is his unwavering commitment to harmony and creating results that feel natural, refreshed, and uniquely tailored to each patient.

While Dr. Myint has long been known for achieving elegant surgical outcomes, his focus is increasingly set on the future of medicine and plastic surgery. Dr. Myint is a faculty member of the San Diego Arts Of Regenerative Therapy (SDARTS) where some of the greatest minds from around the world meet to discuss the future of regenerative therapy. He is helping lead the specialty into a new era centered on cellular restoration and cellular reset, an evolution that is redefining how aging itself is approached.

"The future in plastic surgery is very exciting," he explains. "There's a shift in medicine towards biologic signaling to change a cells behavior to treat diseases and healing. By mining these regenerative modalities, we can reset your cells to a healthier version."

This vision has already taken shape in his practice utilizing cutting edge biologics to support both aesthetic regeneration and overall wellness for his patients.

More than a trend, regenerative medicine represents a philosophical shift. Where traditional plastic surgery often focuses on structural change, cellular therapies aim to restore vitality from within, while improving skin quality, enhancing healing, and promoting long-term longevity.

"I think it will pave the way for more innovative technology in the field of cellular beauty, using fat, stem cells, mitochondria, Exosomes and more,"

he says. These advancements, he believes, will continue to move the industry toward treatments that achieve longevity, beauty and a more natural outcome.

Dr. Myint's influence extends far beyond the operating room. With decades of experience teaching other students and doctors from around the world, he has authored numerous medical publications—including multiple textbooks on oculofacial plastic surgery—his work serves as a trusted resource for surgeons around the globe. "My hope is to leave behind a movement in the longevity/Regenerative space using cellular reset."

Yet for all his innovation and academic achievement, what patients remember most is how he makes them feel. Dr. Myint is deeply committed to creating an experience that is as reassuring as it is transformative. One where patients feel seen, understood, and confident every step of the way.

In a field defined by constant advancement, Dr. Myint stands comfortably at the intersection of science and artistry, always looking ahead. Spend just a few minutes in his presence, and it becomes clear: patients aren't simply meeting a surgeon, they're encountering a visionary whose intuition, skill, and imagination continues to elevate what is possible. Dr. Shoib Myint proves that his magic is not only real—it is only growing stronger.
